LOCAL AMERICA SUPPORTS YOU HOMEFRONT GROUP MEETS WITH PRESIDENT BUSH AT THE WHITE HOUSE

President Thanks Groups for Their Support of Troops and Families

WASHINGTON—Cindy McGrew of Operation Second Chance, a Clarksburg-based organization, was one of 10 America Supports You Homefront groups invited by President George W. Bush to a private meeting at the White House today to discuss the importance of her work, and to thank her for her organization's support of the military at home and abroad.

Operation Second Chance aids in the recovery and rehabilitation of wounded service men and women at Walter Reed Army Medical Center and continuing through their transition back to civilian life. Cindy McGrew first began her personal outreach to recovering troops at Walter Reed in November 2004. Within a few months, her work grew into Operation Second Chance, supporting the wounded and their families by providing groceries, clothing and other essential items to make their stays more comfortable. The group also facilitates housing modifications to help accommodate disabled veterans.

“It was an honor for me to be invited to the White House for this important meeting with President Bush,” said McGrew, president of Operation Second Chance. “He recognized how important our work on behalf of our men and women in uniform is, and that this nationwide support is critical to their morale. Recognition of this magnitude fuels our passion to let service members across the world know how much America supports them and to continue providing ways the American people can show their support.”

“There are some remarkable acts of kindness by people who have taken it upon themselves to serve their country by helping a neighbor in need,” said President Bush of the groups' work. “Whether it be helping the chaplains help kids, or whether it be helping a family of the injured, whether it be working at Walter Reed or supporting troops getting ready to go into combat, these good men and women really represent the very best of America...I'm proud to be the President of a country with so many decent citizens.”

“I ask my fellow citizens to support our troops and their families. There are all kinds of ways you can find out how to do so,” President Bush added. “AmericaSupportsYou.mil, for example, is a Web site that if you really do want to participate like these citizens have, that you can find a way to contribute your time or your money, your talents, to really send a message that America supports these brave volunteers who are out defending their country in the war on terror.”

About America Supports You:

America Supports You is an ongoing nationwide program that helps showcase American's support for the men and women of the Armed Forces. Since its launch in November of 2004 by the Department of Defense, America Supports You has welcomed nearly 250 homefront groups and more than 30 corporate sponsors. Many America Supports You homefront groups support the troops by writing letters, sending care packages, helping the wounded when they return home, assisting military families, sending e-mails or simply extending kind gestures to the troops.
